

Save the Dates! International Education Week celebrations are coming to a city near you!

International Education Week (IEW) is an opportunity to celebrate the benefits of international education and exchange worldwide. This joint initiative of the U.S. Department of State and the U.S. Department of Education is part of our effort to promote programs that prepare Americans for a global environment and attract future leaders from abroad to study, learn, and exchange experiences in the United States. Our activities will begin on November 12 with the release of Open Doors, an annual survey that provides information about international and U.S. student study abroad, and will continue through November 21. We encourage the attendance of all individuals and institutions interested in international education and exchange activities, including schools, colleges and universities, international organizations, businesses, associations, and community organizations. At each open day event, you will learn about study opportunities in the U.S., including information on scholarships and exchanges administered by the American Consulate General and AMIDEAST; standardized testing; and applying for a student visa. Also, meet alumni who will share their study and exchange experiences and more!
